Background of WSWD-2021

Background of WSWD 2021

World Social Work Day (WSWD) was launched by The International Federation of Social Workers (IFSW) in 1983. Later, other social work organizations such as the International Association of Schools of Social Work (IASSW) have also joined as partners to this event. WSWD has become a focal point in the social work calendar with social workers all over the world celebrating and promoting the contributions of the profession towards individuals, families, communities, and wider society. The day is celebrated every 3rd Tuesday of March.

On this day, social work organizations throughout the world celebrate WSWD by the way of bringing messages to their governments, communities, and peer professional groups on the unique and significant contributions made by the social work profession. The actions also highlight the approach of the social work profession to facilitate sustainable community outcomes by applying a developmental and capacity building approach coupled with advocating for social justice and human rights.

The themes of WSWD are set for two years according to the goals of the Global Agenda for Social Work and Social Development:

2012 – 2014: Promoting Social and Economic Equality

2015 – 2016: Promoting the Dignity and Worth of Peoples.

2017 – 2018: Promoting Community and Environmental Sustainability

2019 – 2020: Promoting the Importance of Human Relationships

2020 – 2021: Strengthening Social Solidarity & Global Connectedness

Every year IFSW produces a poster announcing WSWD which is spontaneously translated into over 45 languages, and presented to governments, political bodies posted on the notice boards of social services and in social work classrooms throughout the world. The event has become so successful in recent years it is now generally considered as a highlight of international solidarity and cooperation of social workers.

WORLD SOCIAL WORK DAY AT THE UNITED NATIONS

Sporadically WSWD at the UN has also been celebrated in Vienna, Nairobi, and Santiago de Chile. In 2017 for the first time, WSWD was celebrated at the UN in Bangkok.

OBJECTIVES OF WSWD AT THE UN

COMMEMORATING WORLD SOCIAL WORK DAY (WSWD) - 2021

World Social Work Day is on the 16th of March 2021. It is the key day in the year that social workers worldwide stand together to advance our common message globally. This year, the 2021 World Social Day highlights Ubuntu: I am Because We Are. This is the first theme of 2020 to 2030 Global Agenda for Social Work and Social Development. Ubuntu: I am Because We are – Strengthening Social Solidarity and Global Connectedness. Ubuntu: 'I am because we are' is a concept and philosophy that resonates with the social work perspective of the interconnectedness of all peoples and their environments. It speaks to the need for global solidarity and also highlights indigenous knowledge and wisdom. Silvana Martinez, IFSW President commented.

The theme comes from extensive consultation within IFSW and beyond. At a time when global politics has retreated into nationalism, Ubuntu is a powerful message on the need for solidarity at all levels: within communities, societies, and globally. It is a message that all people are interconnected and that our future is dependent on recognizing all people's involvement in co-building a sustainable, fair, and socially just future. Motivated by IFSW, APSWDP invites all social workers, partner organizations, and people who care about the future to partner and organize events in the country. Together we can change the world for this and future generations.

Programme Background and Introduction by Shri. Vivek Trivedi, Principal Convener WSWD-2021

Mr. Vivek Trivedi, while sharing the programme background, he briefed that "World Social Work Day (WSWD)" was launched by The International Federation of Social Workers (IFSW) in 1983 and later, other social work organizations such as the International Association of Schools of Social Work (IASSW) have also joined as collaborative partners to popularize the day worldwide. He said that WSWD has become a focal event in the global calendar of social work and social workers all over the world for celebrating and promoting the contributions of the social work profession towards individuals, families, communities, and wider society. The day is universally celebrated every 3rd Tuesday of March. He said that on this day, social work organizations working in diverse domain of development sector throughout the world celebrate WSWD by way of bringing messages to their governments, communities, and peer professional groups on the unique and significant contributions made by the social work profession. The actions also highlight the approach of the social work profession to facilitate sustainable community outcomes by applying a developmental, capacity building and convergence approach coupled with advocating for social justice and human rights.

He further briefed that APSWDP has been conferred Special Consultative Status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council (UN-ECOSOC) and affiliation with UN Department of Global Communications in 2019. He asserted that APSWDP is organizing the day in the Chandigarh region for the past 6 years with the government departments, civil society and youth networks. He has also thrown light on International Day of Happiness (IDH) and shared that the United Nations is celebrating the IDH as a way to recognize the importance of happiness in the lives of people around the world. In 2015, the UN launched the 17 Sustainable Development Goals, which seek to end poverty, reduce inequality, and protect our planet – three key aspects that lead to well-being and happiness.

He also shared that the key objectives of commemorating such day are to strengthen existing or to establish new contacts, cooperation and partnership with diverse organizations and stakeholders; spread knowledge about social work, its values, principles, and methods in practice and theory among organizations and departments; highlight social work actions, policies, and achievements in the pursuit of common goals; disseminate the knowledge about SDGs, program, and campaigns among social workers, community workers and social work organizations, institutions and establishing convergence among them for bringing efficacy in developing communities; and discuss specific community development schemes with various workforces engaged in the development process at the community level.

He said that on most occasions, the literature that we come across is in English language which acts as a barrier for delivering the required services to the community. Hence, it becomes vital for us to adhere to the local vernacular that facilitates our services at the ground level. Shri Trivedi talked about the content of the workshop which has been designed for the students, social workers and development practitioners which is based on interaction and group work. It will enable them to understand the concurrent problems of society and appropriate solutions by engaging in social dialogues. He motivated all the participants to prepare a road map which can be implemented at regional, national and international level. Also, he inspired the students to write essays, blogs, articles on social issues wherein APSWDP can support in translating the content into English. He pushed all the participants to grow more in their local and regional language which should never inhibit your growth but rather facilitates the ideas. The true thought will always invade the mind in local and regional language, he added.

In his concluding words, he said that APSWDP has a firm belief in "Think Global and Act Local" and is committed to disseminating global knowledge and practices learned and acquired from UN conferences, training workshops, and TOTs especially at UNITAR/CIFAL JITC. He assured that APSWDP will always work on evolving way forward by converging and developing linkages with Social Work Professionals and law professionals to work in coherence for resolving human conflicts in the communities; integrating methods of social work in practice with law-abiding and enforcement agencies; promoting community-driven development on the principles of participation, local empowerment, demand-responsiveness, greater accountability and enhance local capacity through transparency; mainstreaming of various civil society organizations, non-governmental organizations to lead the local chapter in Chandigarh; enhancing the outreach activities through a participatory approach to empower people through community development scheme in a pursuit to improve their overall well-being; and emphasizing on introducing the concept of change management and sustainable lifestyle.

He shared that CBLU Bhiwani has always been proactive in coming forward with APSWDP for organizing such knowledge disseminating training workshops for diverse stakeholders.

Address by Guest of Honour Shri. Aditya Pundir, Head South Asia,
The Climate Reality Project- India,

Shri Aditya Pundir started his session by linking social work education with climate change. He mentioned that most of the participants are youth and talking to youth is like talking to the future of this country. He mentioned the rise in global population which poses more burden on nations across the world. According to him, more population means a requirement of more resources. For instance, food, water, etc. are the basic necessity of life but with the increase in population size, the demand for all these basic requirements will also increase.

While talking about Sustainable Development Goal 12 'Responsible Production and Consumption', he deduced that we require more and more resources for survival which is making our existence more dependent. For instance, dependency on technology like computers and mobile phones which are becoming the basic necessities of life, and comprehending survival without these means would trouble us. That means, our consumption is increasing as the economy is rising. However, he ascertained the fact that it is putting more and more pressure on the environment and climatic conditions are getting deteriorated due to irresponsible production and consumption. For instance, creating more and more products requires more energy.

He perceived that we are giving energy which is equal to 5 lac atomic bombs on a daily basis to this mother earth. With the increase in emissions, climate change is occurring more and more rapidly and thus becomes a challenge for humanity to deal with.

He quoted three major points given by philosophers on saving mother earth:

1. Controlling nuclear war
2. Climate change
3. Epidemic

Shri Pundir also broached the increase in global poverty resulting in hunger which is the result of climate change. It is impacting the production of good crops and with an increase in population, more and more food is required to serve the needs of individuals. Similarly, it is creating gender inequality whereby women are facing more challenges due to associated risk. For instance, the supply of drinking water is becoming an issue and the municipalities are trying to provide portable drinking water to the community.

Shri Pundir ascertained the rise in disparities and inequality because of the problems associated with climate change. He quoted that 'Rich is becoming richer whereas poor is becoming poorer and poorer. The economic gap is increasing with the passage of time. He impelled the students of social work to envision the appropriate solutions to deal with these global issues.

He mentioned Sustainable Development Goals that came to light in 2015 when 193 member states of the United Nations officially adopted the historic new agenda, entitled “Transforming Our World: The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development,” and includes 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). It was a roadmap to end global poverty, building a life of dignity for all and leaving no one behind. It was also a clarion call to work in partnership and intensify efforts to share prosperity, empower people’s livelihoods, ensure peace and heal our planet for the benefit of this and future generations, he added.

While talking about Happiness, he apprised that kids are always happy but as they grow old, they again start exploring happiness around them. He highlighted four major points that can ensure happiness:

1. Good Health
2. Financial security
3. Social relations
4. Personal achievement

Toward the end of his session, he extended his heartiest thanks to Shri Vivek Trivedi, Founder, APSWDP as well as CBLU Bhiwani for inviting him to deliver this session and to interact with the youth.

Address by Chief Guest Prof. R. K. Mittal, Vice-Chancellor, Chaudhary Bansi Lal University (CBLU), Bhiwani

The inaugural address was delivered by Chief Guest, the hon'ble Vice Chancellor of Chaudhary Bansi Lal University Prof. R. K. Mittal. He started his session by a statement that Mother, Mother Earth and Mother Language should always be respected. The hon'ble Vice Chancellor also referred to the remarks of Shri Vivek Trivedi wherein he mentioned about the use of local and regional language for dialogues. He spur the participants not to petrify local and regional language but rather make use of it to debate on various social issues. What matters is your content. One should also dwell on learning more languages but development will take place in local language.

He acknowledged and appreciated the endeavour of Shri Vivek Trivedi, founder of Association of Professional Social Worker and Development Practitioners (APSWDP) for planning this event at CBLU. He also welcomed Shri Aditya Pundir, Head, The Climate Reality Project South Asia, Dr. Sumit Arora, President, APSWDP, Shri Hitesh Kumar Gulati, Director General, APSWDP during the workshop.

He referred to the session of Shri Aditya Pundir wherein he emphasized on building social relationships, good health and financial planning for having a happy life. He introduced the audience to "Taittiriya Upanishad" which is a Vedic era Sanskrit text that emphasize on five major points covering most of the SDGs:

1. Food for good health
2. Breathing and strong respiratory system
3. Mental well-being
4. Good information and knowledge for growth
5. Overall happiness

Thereafter, he discussed the stages of Economic Growth by Rostow and emphasized on the last stage "Age of high mass consumption" which equates more consumption with more growth. According to him, a traditional society must develop and reach up to a stage of high sustainable consumption and high per capita income. It will not only raise the development stage of an individual but also a developed nation.

He foregrounded the issue of environment and climate change which is a matter of worry for all of us. Nations across the world are worried about the ongoing issues and challenges which otherwise has to be sustainable in all the aspects, he added.

Lastly, he mentioned that we must leave potential resources for our future generations so that they can live and enjoy the beauty of this world. He rightly gave an example that usually the parents and elders of the family accumulate financial resources so as to facilitate their future generations to have much with them. However, it is a pity that the same does not apply to the environmental aspects which is a worrisome situation for all of us. Before ending his session, he talked about SDG 12 - Sustainable Production and Consumption thereby invoking the participants to be more accountable for being responsible towards food, water, electricity, etc. Also, he urged the participants to plant more trees and spend some time with trees and nature.

Technical Sessions

Speakers and Technical Experts

Shri. Vivek Trivedi

Dr. Sumit Arora

- Community Driven Development in context of NALSA Scheme

Experts: Shri. Vivek Trivedi, Trained on Community Driven Development, Hon. National Coordinator Poverty, Livelihood, Disaster TCP, India and SDGs, UNITAR/CIFAL Alumni.

- Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and its Localization

Expert: Dr. Sumit Arora, Trained on Localization of SDGs, UNITAR/CIFAL Alumni and Climate Leader, TCP-India.

Technical Session - I: Community-Driven Development Shri. Vivek Trivedi, Trained on Community Driven Development, Hon. National Coordinator Poverty, Livelihood, Disaster TCP, India and SDGs, UNITAR/CIFAL Alumni.

Shri Vivek Trivedi in his technical session threw few questions on Community, Community Development, and Community-Driven Development. He clarified first that the participants should come up with their understanding of the terms referred by him on community development. Afterward, he shared definition following definition on community and community development as under:-

"The person who is independent of his fellow beings and is unable to live in community or society is either Beast or God. Community is the combination of two Latin words i.e. 'cam' means together and 'munis' means serve i.e. .serve together is called the community" - Socrates.

"Total organization of social life within a limited area" - W. Ogburn

"a process where community members come together to take collective action and generate solutions to common problems." - United Nations

He further referred to another definition of Community Development propagated by the International Association of Community Development (IACD), as "a practice-based profession and an academic discipline that promotes participative democracy, sustainable development, rights, economic opportunity, equality, and social justice, through the organization, education, and empowerment of people within their communities, whether these be of locality, identity or interest, in urban and rural settings"

Shri. Vivek Trivedi referred to the World Bank and ADB's understanding of Community-driven development (CDD). He cited another definition of CDD as a development initiative that provides control of the development process, resources, and decision-making authority directly to groups in the community. The underlying assumption of CDD projects is that communities are the best judges of how their lives and livelihoods can be improved and, if provided with adequate resources and information, they can organize themselves to provide for their immediate needs. CDD projects work by providing poor communities with direct funding for development with the communities then deciding how to spend the money. Lastly, the community plans and builds the project and takes responsibility for monitoring its progress.

He further highlighted that Community Driven Development (CDD) approaches aim to empower people in poverty by putting investments and responsibility for decision making in their hands. In so doing, CDD works to build opportunities, strengthen the people's voice to demand greater accountability of the institutions that are relevant to their livelihoods, and to promote sustainable development.

Shri Trivedi in his later half of the technical session highlighted the following principles developed by the Social Development Department, World Bank in a publication on "Community Driven Development: Broadening Community Authority and Control Over Decisions and Resources" to enhance the effectiveness and sustainability of CDD policies, programme design, and implementation:-

- 1. Make investments responsive to informed demand: Programme rules should facilitate informed choice so communities can select priority options and enterprises that are within their capacity and that they can afford to operate in the long run.
- 2. Build participatory mechanisms for community control and stakeholder involvement: Involvement of all stakeholders should be sought throughout all phases of the CDD project cycle.
- 3. Invest in capacity building of community-based organizations (CBOs): Building the capacity of CBOs and fostering relationships with formal support institutions are productive investments in themselves, but should include explicit exit strategies.
- 4. Facilitate community access to information: Facilitating flows of information with all groups in a community in terms of programme contents and rules, linkages with government and markets, and good practices of CBOs is an essential component of CDD.
- 5. Develop simple rules and strong incentives supported by monitoring and evaluation: Community access to resources should be governed by simple rules and procedures that are easy for communities to interpret and apply. Participatory monitoring and evaluation is an important tool for community assessment of its own performance.
- 6. Establish enabling institutional and policy frameworks: Fostering an enabling environment includes (i) responsive decentralized local, governments and inter-governmental arrangements; (ii) a conducive legal and regulatory framework that supports community action; and (iii) clear sector, policies with well-defined roles and responsibilities for key players in each sector.
- 7. Maintain flexibility in the design of arrangements and innovation: Programme design should be reviewed and adjusted periodically, as necessary. Procedures should ensure direct feedback from the community on programme performance that can feed into project restructuring.
- 8. Ensure social and gender inclusion: Explicit gender-sensitive approaches are needed to ensure that CBOs incorporate the interests of groups that are often excluded, including women, minority groups, remote communities, and the poorest women and men.
- 9. Design for scaling-up: To have a broader impact on a country's poverty, CDD needs to spread simultaneously in many communities, while respecting the unique features of specific communities.
- 10. Invest in an exit strategy: Exit strategies for external support are vital: Permanent institutional and financial arrangements are required for recurrent services, at a cost that can be supported over the medium and long term.

In the last, he concluded by referring to examples from the Indian context viz. Social Mobilization and Institutional Development (SMID) component of National Urban Livelihood Mission, Targeted Intervention projects under State AIDS Control Societies under NACO.

Technical Session - II: Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and its Localization, Alumni UNITAR/CIFAL Jeju.

Dr. Sumit Arora shared in his presentation about the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and their localization at the community level. He said that SDGs are also known as the Global Goals, which were adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015 as a universal call to action to end poverty, protect the planet and ensure that all people enjoy peace and prosperity by 2030.

He highlighted the key feature of the 17 SDGs as their Integration and Connectedness. He further said that 17 SDGs are integrated—that is, they recognize that action in one area will affect outcomes in others and that development must balance social, economic, and environmental sustainability.

Dr. Arora in his deliberation referred that through the pledge to "Leave No One Behind", countries have committed to fast-track progress for those furthest behind first. That is why the SDGs are designed to bring the world to several life-changing ‘zeros’, including zero poverty, hunger, AIDS, and discrimination against women and girls.

Further, he elaborated on each of the SDGs one by one using SDG models with participants and discussed in detail about its targets and sub-targets. Later, he also introduced about his involvement in UNITAR/CIFAL Jeju as participants in their workshops on the Localization of SDGs and others on COVID-19 impacts, where he learned about this innovative concept on Community Driven Development and SDGs. He further added that he has taken SDGs awareness at a local level with school children, school drop-outs, college and university youth through Youth Parliaments on SDGs under the aegis of APSWDP since its inception. He also shared that APSWDP will come up with the SDG Literacy concept and SDG Literacy clubs in the educational institutions in the coming future and request participants to volunteer their time for the same.
